California recently passed a series of new regulations affecting its pay-to-play laws that limit political contributions by state and local government contractors and others involved in pro ceedings on contracts, licenses, permits, and other entitlements for use in the state.

The phrase "You play, you p ay" is often used to convey the idea that if you engag e in a certain activity or behavior, you are responsible for dealing with the co nsequences, whether positive or negative.
