The 1961 European Cup final was held at the Wankdorf

Stadium, Bern on 31 May 1961, and was contested by Portuguese side Benfica agai nst Spanish side Barcelona. This was the first final not to include Real Madrid, who had won the previous five finals. Benfica lifted the trophy for the first t ime, beating Barcelona 3 2. Benfica midfielder Mario Coluna broke his nose in the eighth minute of the match; not wanting to risk further damage, when Domiciano Cavém put ove r a cross in the 55th minute, Coluna hung back outside the penalty area. The bal l was cleared directly to him and he volleyed it home for Benfica's third go al of the match.[2]

Route to the final [edit]

Five-time defending champions Real Madrid were knocked out in the first round by Barcelona, their bitter domestic rivals. After defeating Czechoslovak champions Hradec Králové in the quarter-finals, Barcelona initially dr ew 2 2 on aggregate with West German champions Hamburger SV in the semi-finals.

Since this was before UEFA competitions began using the away goals rule, in orde r to determine who would advance to the final, a replay was scheduled to be play
